

New Books for May 2025

Theo of Golden Levi, Allen

Questions linger about Theo, a pleasant but mysterious stranger, after his arrival in the southern city of Golden. This is a beautifully crafted story about the power of creative generosity, the importance of wonder to a purposeful life, and the far-reaching possibilities of anonymous kindness.

Strangers in Time Baldacci, David

A riveting story of secrets, betrayals, and unlikely friendships during World War II. An emotional web that keeps spinning - and keeps you guessing right until the end.

Finding Me Davis, Viola

An Oprah's Book Club recommendation; about the life of Viola Davis as she reflects on her experiences growing up.

Little Fires Everywhere Ng, Celeste

Yes, it's the story of one Ohio town, but Little Fires Everywhere is not that familiar tale of the underside of the American suburb. It's a powerful work about parenthood and politics, adolescent strife and artistic ambition, and the stark choice between conformity and community.

Lessons in Chemistry Garmus, Bonnie

Feminism is the catalyst that makes Lessons in Chemistry fizz like hydrochloric acid on limestone. Elizabeth Mott does not have moxie, she has courage. She is not a 'girl boss' or 'lady chemist'; She's a groundbreaker.

The Vanishing at Opal Creek Book 10 D.D. Black

A Thomas Austin Crime Thriller.

Amidst the rugged beauty of Oregon's Opal Creek Wilderness, a contestant on a reality survival show falls to his death from an isolated cliff, his body later devoured by black bars. The show's producers are spinning it as a tragic accident, but local police suspect murder.

The Darkness at Deception Pass Book 9 D.D. Black

A Thomas Austin Crime Thriller.

Three years ago, the body of an elderly woman was found in the cool waters beneath the Deception Pass Bridge near Whidbey Island, Washington. Two years later, a deceased man of almost ninety floated on the pebbly shore of Bremerton, just south of the Manette Bridge. Each case left authorities puzzled, and then a third body turns up in the chilling waters of Deception Pass.
